IMPORTANT

The format of numbers and letters (Alphanumeric) is not your password, your password is the one you know and enter normally; for example tmp85, tmp86, among others.

The combination of letters and numbers that can be seen is a security value called data encryption, so that the security of a user cannot be violated at any of the eCamp levels

The combination of letters and numbers that can be seen is a security value called data encryption, so that the security of a user cannot be violated at any of the eCamp levels.

Users at Regional Director, International Director and Senior Director levels should send an email to david.sampi1990@gmail.com with the user who wants to reset the password.

Passwords must be entered respecting upper and lower case letters.

It should be noted that all levels of the eCamp system are enabled and in proper working order, if you can enter the eCamp system, you must surely enter your password correctly.
